NEW Leaders Trained in Jamaica

Trained to Evangelize, Equip, and Empower Boys and Young Men

In March of last year Robert Berdine, our District Outreach Coordinator, was privileged to be part of a team of fellow Instructor Trainers to travel to Jamaica on a training missions trip. He and four commanders from the North Texas District, along with Matt Kling, RRI Director of Operations, headed to the island of Jamaica for an intense week-long training event.

The leadership of the Jamaican church welcomed them with open arms as the country is in desperate need for a ministry to mold their boys and young men into the leaders of their homes and churches.

Many boys in Jamaica have been abandoned by their fathers and grow up without any Christian mentoring. This is something the church hopes to provide through proper training of leaders in the Royal Ranger ministry. Training is something that Royal Rangers is known for worldwide.

The classes that were taught during the week qualified the leaders to teach in their respective churches. Each earned their LMA (Leaders Medal of Achievement) at the end of the week.

Some of the classes taught were Ranger Fundamentals, Discipleship, Outpost Council, Age Specific Activities, Royal Ranger Curriculum, and Safety in the Church.

The leaders also learned about working in patrols and the importance of FUN and EXCITING meeting times with their boys.

There were 56 leaders present for the training and, as a result, we expect to see great things happening in Jamaica.

In addition to performing training, the Penn-Del District Royal Rangers has sent numerous Pathfinder teams around the world to build churches for missionaries in remote areas in order to help evangelize the world. Pathfinder Teams have gone to such places as Bolivia, Chile, Paraguay, Dominican Republic, Panama, Peru, China and many more to help support our missionaries and Royal Rangers International.
